Thank you for your presentation. You are one of the most dynamic and energetic speakers that I have seen. Your "Thriving Under Fire" presentation is applicable to business people, busy homemakers and students today. In fact, I cannot think of anyone that would not be uplifted by attending one of your presentations. Your message in general is coping with the fast-paced technological age that we live in, and you talk about specific techniques for doing so and use drama and humour to get your point across. One of the comments from a staff member was "very articulate, pleasant, humorous - kept attention - content was interesting and helpful."

I found that you were very astute in customizing your presentation to our area of business. The responses from our staff were very positive. I will definitely be calling you back in the near future to work with the Milner Fenerty firm.
